

Heresy on Mt. Athos:
Conflict over the Name of God
Among Russian Monks and Hierarchs,
1912-1914

© Tom E. Dykstra

May 21, 1988

TABLE OF CONTENTS

PREFACE	1
INTRODUCTION	2
1. A BOOK AND ITS CRITICS	8
2. DEFENDER OF THE FAITH OR HERESIARCH	26
3. IMYASLAVTSY VICTORIOUS	45
4. IMYASLAVTSY UNDER SIEGE	60
5. THE RUSSIAN CHURCH'S DECISION	69
6. MANU MILITARI	86
7. THE PEN SUPPLEMENTS THE SWORD	102
8. TRUCE	119
9. NAME AS SACRAMENT	130
EPILOGUE	143
CONCLUSION	147

BIBLIOGRAPHY 151

PREFACE

This is a reprint of my master's thesis written at St. Vladimir's seminary in 1988. Unless otherwise noted, all dates are those of the original sources, i.e. Old (Julian) Calendar. Transliteration follows U.S. Board on Geographic Names conventions for Russian and those of the Library of Congress for Greek. Capitalization in translations from Russian is generally according to English conventions. For help in the research and writing of this work I owe thanks to Fr. John Meyendorff, Richard Seltzer, John Dibs, Andre Orbeliani, Bill Bass, Stephen Beskid, Alexander Dvorkin, Edward Kasinec, Antoine Niviere, Hugh Olmstead, Johannes Remy, Mark Stokoe, and the library staff of the Centre d'Etudes Istina in Paris.